1 : Start from « Place Henri Giraud » square, walk through a centuries-old-tree-park named Benjamin Priaulet », don't miss the house of this olive oil merchant and the olive oil mill turned into a media center and take the pedestrian crossing, called « passage du Temps Retrouvé ».

2 : Turn right and walk through «Place Laugier de Monblan » square. Notice Sainte Croix church and the shady bar terraces in front of ! Have a look at the four seasons fountain, built around 1869, a masterpiece for such a little village ! Walk through « avenue de la Vallée des Baux » avenue and down « Charles Piquet » street : you will go past a few little fountains and a wash-house.

3 : Turn right on « Charles Piquet » car park go through until the pedestrian passage on your right. Take « Rue Simon Barbier » street on a few meters. Turn left in « Rue Sautel » street and find a new fountain.

4 : Then turn right before « Simon Barbier » car park and walk on a little « carrairon ». In provençal a « carrairon » denotes a small path running along side a brook. Follow this path, staying on the right side until « la Calade » dead end .

5 : Walk through « Avenue de la Vallée des Baux » avenue and stop by the Napoleon III wash-house. It was an innovating concept at the time, because users were allowed to wash in standing position !

Go on walking along « la vallée des Baux » avenue and next to the school, see the mural paintings by Jean-Claude Quilici, painted with the help of Maussane primary school pupils. A little fountain invites you to turn right, then walk along the back of the school. At the end, turn left and walk along the « gaudre ».

A « gaudre » is a provençal word denoting a small brook. It may be dried up in summer time or flow slowly the rest of the year.

Many « gaudres » are going through the village, they all come from the Alpilles hills and end up in old swamps in the south of village. Turn left and go down « Avenue des marronniers » street.

6 : Turn right in « rue du vieux Maussane » street, crossing a little bridge that steps over the « gaudre ».

Here you are in the historical village center. You will look at a beautiful private mansion « maison Quenin » built shortly before the French revolution.

Turn left and go down « rue Charloun Rieu » street until « fontaine du Planet » fountain and its adjacent wash house. It used to be a place of sociability where washerwomen chatted while washing their linen.

7 : Go up « rue Charloun Rieu » street to « Maître Cornille » mill (dating back to the 16th century). Guided visits are available by reservation. Turn right and take a path named « chemin des Batignolles »; it is a former unused railway between Arles and Salon-de-Provence. At the end of the lane, turn left on « route des baux » walk along for a few meters.

8 : Then, turn right before the bridge that steps over the « gaudre ». Follow a little trail running in the woods alongside a fresh brook. A little waterfall welcomes you at the end ! Climb up the slope on your right and here you are in « Agora » park !

9 : Follow the way lined by almond trees and go down steps on the right. Do make a stop by a giant Map of France, an ashlar monument of 5X5 meters and 6 tons standing in the park ! Go through the garden and the car park, then cross the little bridge. Cross « Avenue des Alpilles » and go down « rue de la gare » street. You are now back to « Place Henri Giraud » square.
